THE GOTHAM TRAGEDY.

Events which were shaped by Mrs. Harry D. Thaw in an effort to defend her husband for the murder of Stanford White in Madison Square roof garden, were regarded as supplying a more or less complete explanation of the crime. A letter was written by Stanford White to Mrs. Thaw. Mr. Thaw found the letter and there was thus revealed to him the fact that Stanford White persisted in pursuing his wife. Knowledge that Mrs. Thaw suffered the keenest anguish because of this continued pursuit apparently drove Thaw to insane frenzy.

As the authorities begin to inquire into the private life of White they no longer marvel that he was shot down. The investigation has already shown that there is an organized band of rich clubmen and artists who make victims of young girls of the stage, of the shops and of poorer homes. Their treatment of these girls, many of them mere children, is too brutal for description.

Harry Kendall Thaw was indicted for murder in the first degree for the killing of Stanford White on the Madison Square roof garden. A prison keeper offered Harry K. Thaw a lucky rabbit's foot carried by Roland B. Moineux, Mrs. Fleming, Nan Patterson and Bertha Clalche. Thaw declined the gift.

The winter wheat production of the United States he gives as 420,000,000 bushels, 60,000,000 bushels over last year, and the record crop of winter wheat ever produced. Cotton and corn are in exceedingly good condition, and with a hot July and August may also break the record; but nothing but a wet harvest can lower the wheat crop, says the Jones estimate.

Life Insurance Co.

INVESTIGATION OF

A Special Committee Shows That the Company is in a Good Financial Condition.

New York. — The special committee of the board of trustees of the New York Life Insurance Co. appointed December 13, 1905, to consider the evidence submitted to the legislative committee and the report of the five state commissioners of insurance, who were then examining the company's affairs, made its final report to the board of trustees Monday.

The report, which is a comprehensive one, deals with the financial condition of the company, the work of the finance committee, the general method of conducting the business, departmental work, expenses, foreign business deferred dividend policies and various miscellaneous matters, under separate heads.

"We have verified all the assets of the company and, after providing sufficient reserves for possible losses, find that on December 31, 1905, the total assets amounted to $438,788,015.19, and are fully worth that sum."

"We have tested the clerical accuracy of the insurance reserve as certified by the actuary of the company, which amounts to $379,151,063, and exceeds that required by the insurance department of the state of New York by the sum of $7,201,720, and having made a provision of $5,589,775 for all other liabilities, we find that there was on December 31, 1905, a balance of $4,047,176 available for dividends on participating policies (including deferred dividend policies at the end of their several accumulation periods) and for contingencies. This balance exceeds that claimed by the company in its annual report for 1905."

The general administration of the company is well organized, its management is sound, its business methods and system of collecting premiums are effective and economical and its books and records are well and accurately kept."

The committee reports that in 1905 the company wrote $296,640,854 new insurance and that its total income from all sources during that year was $103,432,590. The total payments to policyholders in 1905 amounted to $10,262,039, and the total number of outstanding policies was 1,001,269.

COST OF GOVERNMENT.

Representative Tawney Prepares a Statement of Appropriations Made by Congress.

Washington, D. C. — Representative Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, has prepared a detailed statement concerning the appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1906, made by congress during the session just closed, in which he claims that the per capita cost of government in the United States, including federal and state, is less than that in any European country.

Mr. Tawney enters upon an analysis to show the various channels into which the total appropriations of $880,183,301 will be diverted. He begins by deducting $139,456,415 provided for the sinking fund, the Panama canal, etc., showing that the real appropriation for the conduct of the government for the fiscal year is $740,726,886. To meet this demand he estimates that the total revenues (customs, internal and postal) will be $781,573,344.

The aggregate appropriation is $60,000,000 in excess of that for last year. Of the various increases, that of $3,050,250 is made on account of meat inspection, $1,420,533, on account of the army, $96,046 to carry the new consular law into effect, $1,755,970 on account of the navy, $1,895,400 on account of pensions, $10,673,905 on account of the postoffice department, of which $3,030,000 was for rural free delivery.

Mr. Tawney comments as follows on the volume of the appropriations: "While the expenditures of our government are constantly increasing, and while the appropriations made therefore by congress are in the aggregate very large, yet when we take into consideration the marvelous growth of the country, the extent to which the people demand that the federal government shall perform services that should be paid by the states, none but the unthinking who do not stop to consider the care with which the estimates for appropriations for the public service are scrutinized by the several committees having jurisdiction of appropriation bills, can find any reason to criticize appropriations made during this session of congress."

ONLY THREE CENTURIES AGO

Remedies Prescribed for Human Ailments Among "Enlightened" People.

An antiquary read from a gray little book:

He smiled and resumed: "The cough is easily cured if the party troubled with it spit three or four times into a frog's mouth, but it must be into the mouth of the same frog. You can keep her alive in a little water."

The antiquary's book was called "Culpepper's School of Physick, or the Experimental Practice of the Whole Art." Its author was Nicholas Culpepper, and the date of its publication 1623. For the volume, which was a first edition, the antiquary's price was $75.

He read from the book the following odd extracts:

"To draw a tooth without pain, fill an earthen crucible full of emmets or ants (call them by which name you will), eggs and all, and when you have burned them keep the ashes, with which if you touch a tooth it will drop out."

"Mark where a swine rubs himself, then cut off a piece of the wood and rub any swollen part with it, and it will help it, with this proviso, that where the hog rubs his head it helps the swelling of the head, and where the neck, those of the neck, etc."

"Shave the crown of the head of one that is sick, and lay upon the shaved place rhue stamped with oil of roses, binding it on, and if the party sneeze within six hours after, he will live; else not."

THE KING AND THE PRIMATE

Touching Incident of the Coronation
Ceremony of England's Present Ruler.

The coronation of King Edward VII. was characterized by a human touch which is pleasantly brought out in the recently published memoirs of the late Dr. Temple, archbishop of Canterbury. The coronation was completed, and the enthronization, with its solemn address to the sovereign by the archbishop, followed, says Youth's Companion.

There remained only the homage, which, according to the arrangements for the curtailment of the whole ceremony, was to be tendered by the archbishop both for himself as the first subject of the realm after the blood royal, and also for the other prelates. At this most emotional point the age and deep feeling of the archbishop mastered for a few moments his iron will, and when he sank on his knees he was unable to rise again.

The king, in his own serious weakness, affectionately helped the primate to his feet, and so this most touching episode ended, so far as most of the onlookers were aware.

But when the archbishop recovered his erect attitude, he laid his hand on the king's crowned head, and in a voice of deep emotion said: "God bless you, sir; God bless you; God be with you."

The king, with grace and earnestness all his own, caught the venerable primate's hand and kissed it.

Mystery in Politics.

Won't some student of human nature kindly tell us how and why it is that a discredited politician whose methods are about as bad as they can be and who is utterly without moral scruple in the practice of political arts is so frequently found to be free from about all the minor vices, clean and upright in his private character, and personally kindly, courteous and capable of winning and keeping warm friends of all shades of political opinion?—Boston Herald

PRAISE FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just in Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words."

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicines besides, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day."

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

For 25 years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.
